

May 1st Webcam Picture

2013 Spring??

Early Arrival

Oh Oh!

When the ice began melting away from the shorelines birds landed in the open water. Two loons were stuck because they didn't have enough room for takeoff. Then things got worse. Strong winds pushed the ice up against the shore forcing them to dive. After an afternoon of swimming from opening to opening, they made it to safety. They fired their travel agent and will return later next year.

